THELMA WELLS PROVIDES WINNING STRATEGIES FOR 2010 9 Powerful Testimonies to Overcome Struggles

Dallas, TEXAS - December 10, 2009 - - International speaker Thelma Wells wants to provide women with winning strategies to start 2010 after so many have faced struggles with finances, family, health and broken dreams in 2009. She is taking her "Ready to Win" retreat to Grapevine, Texas Monday January 18, 2010 (Martin Luther King Day). The retreat will be held at the Palace Arts Center, 400 N. - Allison Bottke, author of Setting Boundaries with Your Adult Children, talks about how to maintain your sanity when dealing with out-of-control adult children.

- Comedienne Kerri Pomarolli has been seen on NBC, The Tonight Show with Jay Leno, Comedy Central, Lifetime, Hallmark, Oxygen and ABC Family. She and Wells will host a Girl's Night Out event on Saturday, January 16, 2009 at Agape

Christian Fellowship, 2350 E. Mayfield Rd , Arlington , TX 76014 , prior to Monday's conference. Then on Monday, she will share her personal testimony of overcoming fears to pursue her dreams.

"People are struggling with finances, relationships, religious upheavals, disappointments and pressures all around," said Thelma Wells. "I want to remind women that the battles we fight are not ours to fight alone, they belong to God because He is in control. I want the people to leave the retreat with the calm assurance that God knows their situations and He wants them to win every battle in 2010." Wells will refer to references from her latest book, Don't Give In - God Wants You to Win!

Vocalist Babbie Mason will sing at the retreat including the song she penned especially for Thelma Wells' conference the "Ready to Win" theme song. Despite the great lineup of speakers, the retreat fee is just $10.00. "I realized the economy is not good," said Mrs. Wells who is known as Mama T. "It is imperative that women hear the truth about how to fight and WIN in every circumstance. I don't want a price tag to keep them away."
